

Baby Dedication

HOMEWORK ASSIGNMENT #1:

Below, write down a description of the kind of person you hope your child will become over the next 16-18 years, the kind of person they would be at High School Graduation. Every year, on their birthday, pull out this sheet and read it. This exercise will give you a chance to evaluate how you're doing as you lead your child spiritually and to remember the importance of your child's relationship with God.

HOMEWORK ASSIGNMENT #2:

Below, write down two things that you are doing to DO to invest in yourself and the supportive and significant relationships in your life. Maybe you are going to get a babysitter once or twice a month to keep date night a priority. Maybe you're going to go for a walk every night after dinner and enjoy God's creation.

These kind of practical decisions can make a HUGE impact on your relationships over the long haul. Decide right now what two things you're going to do.

Not only is it important to invest in your significant relationships with those who surround you, but you must invest in your relationship with God. Perhaps you are going to join a life group. Maybe you are going to commit to quiet time three times a week. Make your decision on two things you are going to do to continue to grow in you relationship with God.

MAKE IT PERSONAL:

I know that I cannot model for my children what I do not personally make a priority in my own life. I am going to do the following 2 things so that I begin making consistent investments in myself to be the kind of parent that God wants me to be:

- 1.)
- 2.)

I know that I cannot model for my children what I do not personally make a priority in my life. I am going to do the following 2 things to invest in my relationship with God.

- 1.)
- 2.)

HOMEWORK ASSIGNMENT #3:

Determine who you will invite to your child's baby dedication day and make sure to invite them.

Bring your completed homework to the Parent Orientation.